Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Granfather Whitehead The favorite little two-act piece is an adaptation from the French. It was originally produced in its present Anglicised form at the Haymarket Theatre, 27th September, 1842. Of Farren s performance of the old man on this occasion, one of the critics of the day remarks: Frequently and oft have we witnessed and admired his performances of the old man, and especially of Uncle Foozle; but, however praiseworthy we deemed these several representations, they are as nothing in comparison with his Grandfather Whitehead. The doting fondness for his little grandson - the childlike participation and joy in his amusements - the delight at his boyish interruptions to grandad s writing-lesson - the screening him from correction, and taking the rod into his own hands - are exceedingly natural; and then, again, the fine universal benevolence of the old man - his wish, and almost irritability at not being able to make every one happy - his contentment, interrupted only by the thought now and then breaking in upon the weakened intellect of eighty-three, of his being a burden to others, - are most life-like; and farther, his tottering walk - his chuckling laugh - his short breathing and hesitating sentences - and, under great grief. his stricken body and mind, - are all most admirably, but painfully true; in short, the portrait is perfect. This commendation may be applied without qualification to Mr. H. Placide s excellent acting in the same part. It is one of those artist-like pictures, which once seen live in the memory as distinctly as our recollections of real personages, with whom we may have been familiar, and who...
