Simon & Schuster. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 336 pages. Dimensions: 9.2in. x 6.1in. x 0.9in.You are about to read the tale of the toughest Irish lass who ever took on Hollywood and became a major leading lady. . . . In a career that has lasted more than sixty years, I have acted, punched, swashbuckled, and shot my way through an absurdly masculine profession. . . . As a woman, Im proud to say that I stood toe-to-toe with the best of them and made my mark on my own terms. Im Maureen OHara and this is my life story. -- From Chapter One of Tis Herself In language that is blunt, straightforward, and totally lacking in artifice, Maureen OHara, one of the greatest and most enduring stars of Hollywoods Golden Era, for the first time tells the story of how she succeeded in the worlds most competitive business. Known for her remarkable beauty and her fiery screen persona, Maureen OHara came to Hollywood when she was still a teenager, taken there by her mentor, the great actor Charles Laughton. Almost immediately she clashed with the men who ran the movie business -- the moguls who treated actors like chattel, the directors who viewed every actress as a potential bedmate. Determined to hold her own and to remain true to herself, she fought for roles that she wanted and resisted the advances of some of Hollywoods most powerful and attractive men. It was in the great director John Ford that she first found someone willing to give her a chance to prove herself as an important actress. Beginning with the Academy Award-winning How Green Was My Valley, she went on to make five films with Ford and through him first met the great John Wayne, with whom she also...
